Pastor's Column

To the Parishioners of Our Lady of Lourdes & St. Michael:

What does it mean to live a sacramental life?

Families in our parishes are experiencing the excitement and joy of children who will receive the Eucharist for the first time, and shortly after about 40 will be confirmed in the faith by the Bishop. I know they are being taught the fundamentals of our Catholic faith by dedicated, faithful men and women of our parish through our religious education program. We thank God that many of the parents brought their children to class on a regular basis, but as you may have guessed, the celebration of these sacraments is only the beginning of a life of faith. The family and its home is still the most important teaching place for the faith. It is the "domestic church." A faithful example offered by the parents, reinforcing what the child is taught at the parish, is absolutely vital in keeping our children Christian and Catholic.

The most important day in all of our lives is not our birthday. It is the day of our baptism. If you don't know the date of your baptism, and you don't celebrate it in the home, then this is the year to start. That is the day you entered the body of Christ. And First Communion is the beginning of what I pray will be a life-long friendship with Jesus. But I offer a sober warning; all the fancy dresses, the gift boxes, the rosaries, the candles, the fancy dinner after Mass; none of it will matter one whit if the parents do not teach their children the prayers of the faith and practice their faith every day of their lives. Otherwise, the children will see that the faith is “just not that important,” and they will leave the church and the faith.

The Catechism (#1133) states, “The Holy Spirit prepares the faithful for the sacraments by the Word of God and the faith which welcomes that word in well-disposed hearts. Thus the sacraments strengthen faith and express it.” We hear the word of God during Mass, but living a sacramental life is more than attending Mass for one hour a week and for the rest of the week the faith is pushed aside. To fully appreciate the sacraments, especially the Eucharist, all of us need to remind ourselves that “The purpose of the sacraments is to sanctify [all], to build up the Body of Christ and, finally, to give worship to God. Because they are signs they also instruct. They not only presuppose faith, but by words and objects they also nourish, strengthen, and express it. That is why they are called “sacraments of faith” (#1123). Our goal is to be living saints, living lives according to the virtues, so that we may impart sacredness in all we do, and know heaven is our reward. That is not easy. God offers us the sacraments for the spiritual nourishment and strength to help us.

As Dr. Mary Clark of the Seton Home Study School has written, “We are to live with God as a constant part of our lives, especially by including Him in our family life. Not just Sunday, but every day, should be a day of worship... The sacramental life means not only the regular reception of the sacraments of Penance and the Holy Eucharist, but also the daily practice of using sacramentals, to help us to live the life of prayer and to celebrate the feasts of the liturgical year. Just as the Church dispenses the sacraments as a direct means of sanctifying grace for its members, so the Church of the Home receives graces indirectly through the use of sacramentals approved by the Church.” So equip your domestic Church with such Catholic traditions as the rosary, the scapular, the Miraculous Medal, the use of holy water, candles, ashes, palms, crucifixes, images of Our Lord, the Blessed Mother, and the saints.
